GAME #12 - VS KINCUMBER (WON 2-1)

Things were looking favourable for Wyoming 35DS with an early goal against a 10-men Kincumber team currently languishing at the bottom of the ladder. But with a latecomer boosting their ranks to 11 and an equaliser before half time, the Roos weren't giving up. The second half was a nervous one for the Tigers as the clock ticked by. Ultimately some great service by Jono and cool composure by Paul saw a late goal not only seal up the three points for Wyoming but more importantly, guarantee them a finals berth.

THE FIRST GOAL

Gregg put in a beautiful cross in front of Kincumber's goal. Paul laid the ball back to Jono who sent it spiralling past the keeper into the net.

GOAL !!

KINCUMBER'S EQUALISER

Kincumber's equaliser came about after a messy scramble and failed clearance attempt. Meady tried his best, but as with his goal kicks last weekend, this kick didn't go where he wanted it to this time either, oops.

THE WINNING GOAL

Jono - in center midfield for the majority of the game - wedged it into the gap for Paul to run onto. The keeper charged out. Rather than take a shot and hope for the best, Paul calmly dribbled the ball past him and eased it into the open goal.

CLOSE CHANCES

Luca looked like he was going to break his goal-scoring duck within seconds of the kick off. A great charge up the field and a shot on target was marred only by the keeper. Paul got a shot in from the deflection but it sailed wide.

FUN TRIVIA FACT: 35s FINALISTS

For pioneer members of this 35s team - Flanno, Meady, Dean, Tony, Andy and Gregg - this marks four consecutive finals appearances. Three for Chris and Framey (if he returns).

WHEN PUSH COMES TO SHOVE

There were some fiery encounters out there today - mostly caused by Flanno - but some of the Wyoming players did get fired up from the unwanted attention they received. Luca wasn't too enthused by the back pushing but his greatest nemesis would be a slight hole in the soil of the penalty area - more on that next. Andy took a lesson from Brad's book by turning around and pushing away his opponent after being fouled but it was Jono who showed everyone how it was done. Constantly hacked throughout the game, a very late tackle was the last straw - Jono turned around and pushed the perpetrator straight to the deck. Both received yellow cards for the squabble. This was not the only Wyoming player to be infringed. Flanno had been labelled a nuisance throughout the game by the Kincumber players ... and eventually the ref. When he'd tried to thwart an opposition throw-in, the ref gave him a yellow. Nate was quick to chastise Flanno. Not for receiving his third/fourth (I'd lost count) of the season but for the lame manner in which he received it.

LUCA VS THE HOLE

Luca's season looked like it was over just shy of half time when he dropped to the ground clutching his left leg. Someone claimed they'd heard a snap. He wasn't fouled but rather had tripped over a divot in the soil. He appeared in agony, a possible ankle injury that may've required amputation until master strapper Julia worked her magic and taped it up for him. Miraculously, Luca returned for a couple of stints in the second half. The worst pain though was to come ... at full time ... Julia sadistically pulled the tape away.

NO GRANDFATHERS !!

No sooner had Tony become a grandfather then Framey was announcing his retirement. His achilles heal pulled up sore after last weekend and by midweek he was declaring it a season injury. Was it that bad though? He'd been wanting to take a game off for several weeks now. Was it just bad timing - like those clichéd Cop movies where the old guy has one week away from retirement and gets put down before he makes it - or was this like the Highlander movies where there can be only one? He was no longer the only Grandfather in the team, was he pooped by this? Now comes rumours that he may return to the field in a couple of weeks. Was this all just a ploy for media attention? At any rate, the team had no grandfathers on the field today as Tony was out serving a one week suspension. Speaking of one-game suspensions, it seems Brad's send off in the Gosford game was merely recorded as one yellow card, so he could've played the following game against Terrigal - not that we needed him anyway, we won that game.

STEVIE G'S NEAR DEATH EXPERIENCE !!

There was fear for the life of Stevie G (the other one) on Saturday evening when his guardian (Ryan Wallace) fell asleep and our mascot hero was held hostage by the feline kind. Thankfully no harm was done to our little mate and negotiations were successful. A timely reminder though to whoever billets Stevie G out to please be vigilant at all times !

GOLF DAY

Almost half the team took part in the club's annual golf day at Gosford Golf Club on Monday ... A huge congrats to the team of Flanno, Aaron, Steve G and Nate for taking out 1st prize of $200.

RESULTS

No surprises this round. Wyoming's unbeaten run extends to five games; Woy Woy have now won four in a row; Kariong, three; Umina had their first victory after three consecutive loses; Gosford suffered their first back-to-back losses of the season; and Kincumber have now had four straight defeats.

LADDER

Woy Woy and Karing continue to cling to the Top 2 positions with their respective victories over the weekend. Wyoming's win sees them edge away from Gosford to outright third. The Top 3 teams are guaranteed finalists and Woy Woy have booked themselves into the Major Semi Final. Umina leapfrogged Avoca but their chances of making the Top 4 rest on winning their last two games and hoping Gosford lose their remaining three. If the latter does occur, Avoca have a slim chance as well but their goal differential will need to improve.

THIS WEEKEND'S FIXTURES

If Wyoming are to have any chance of making the Major Semi Final, they'll need to overcome the top team this weekend and hope Kariong slips up against a Umina who will be desperate to keep their finals hopes alive. Gosford however can put an end to all mathematical possibilities for both Avoca and Umina if they defeat Kincumber this weekend. If that happens the top four will be all wrapped up. The order of such remains to be seen though ...
